

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Media Contact – Media Safari, Howard Leavitt 949-5373 • mediasafari@comcanst.net

August 2, 2010

LIVE COMEDY SERIES RETURNS TO EAGLE WITH LORI CALLAHAN AND TROY WALKER

EAGLE – Lori Callahan returns to the stage at the Bowlmor Lounge at the Back Bowl in Eagle, this Saturday, August 7th for ‘Comedy Night at the Bowlmor’.

The longest running live comedy series in the Valley is familiar territory to Callahan who headlined the first show over three years ago. Callahan is considered one of the funniest female headline comedians working today. She is also one of the most tenured acts still headlining at Denver’s fabled Comedy Works and regularly sells out venues throughout the region.

In addition to appearances at comedy clubs throughout the country, Callahan has worked the stage as an opener for first tier comics like Jeff Foxworthy, Paula Poundstone, Richard Belzer and Carrot Top, while her considerable talents have led her to featured TV appearances on Showtime, Comedy Central and she won an Emmy Award for her work with ESPN’s the ‘Lighter Side of Sports’.

Back Bowl owner and general manager Joe Gonzalez, makes no bones about having Lori back for a third time. “Her last two shows were standing room only. People remember her and make a point of getting out to see her.” adding, “She quickly develops an uncanny rapport with the crowd...that she’s really just one of us and she has a knack for telling stories we can all relate to.”

Opening for Callahan is another Comedy Works regular, Troy Walker. He has assumed the role of both opener and headliner, and has twice won the iconic club’s ‘New Faces of Comedy’ contest.

Tickets for ‘Comedy Night at the Bowlmor’ are on sale now for $12 in advance and $15 on the day of the show. Group rates are also available. For this month’s show, the Back Bowl is offering a ‘Dine & Laff’ dinner special with select entrees and the comedy show for $21.95. Tickets can be purchased in person at The Back Bowl, or by phone with a credit card by calling 328-BOWL.

For more information, contact The Bowlmor Lounge at the Back Bowl at 328-BOWL ext. 12, or go to www.thebackbowl.com

LIVE COMEDY SERIES RETURNS TO EAGLE WITH LORI CALLAHAN AND TROY WALKER

EAGLE – Lori Callahan returns to the stage at the Bowlmor Lounge at the Back Bowl in Eagle, this Saturday, August 7th for ‘Comedy Night at the Bowlmor’.

The longest running live comedy series in the Valley is familiar territory to Callahan who headlined the first show over three years ago. Callahan is considered one of the funniest female headline comedians working today. She is also one of the most tenured acts still headlining at Denver’s fabled Comedy Works and regularly sells out venues throughout the region.

In addition to appearances at comedy clubs throughout the country, Callahan has worked the stage as an opener for first tier comics like Jeff Foxworthy, Paula Poundstone, Richard Belzer and Carrot Top, while her considerable talents have led her to featured TV appearances on Showtime, Comedy Central and she won an Emmy Award for her work with ESPN’s the ‘Lighter Side of Sports’.

Back Bowl owner and general manager Joe Gonzalez, makes no bones about having Lori back for a third time. “Her last two shows were standing room only. People remember her and make a point of getting out to see her.” adding, “She quickly develops an uncanny rapport with the crowd...that she’s really just one of us and she has a knack for telling stories we can all relate to.”

Opening for Callahan is another Comedy Works regular, Troy Walker. He has assumed the role of both opener and headliner, and has twice won the iconic club’s ‘New Faces of Comedy’ contest.